Building Resilience in

A Transformational Year

annual report 2020

mission

Seeking to put God's love into action, Habitat for Humanity of Metro Denver brings people together to build homes, communities and hope vision

A world where everyone has a decent place to live

Dear Friends,

It would be an understatement to say that this year has been a challenge. 2020 put unprecedented pressure on all of us - a global pandemic, economic uncertainty and natural disasters. It was also a year that spurred important dialogues about racial justice and civil rights, a growing wealth gap, and the role housing plays in building equity.

Through it all, Habitat for Humanity of Metro Denver remained focused on our mission and steadfast in our service to the community. Our values of collaboration, inclusivity, equity and humanity led us through the biggest challenges and allowed us to keep our eyes open to new opportunities.

I'm proud to share that we were able to serve 186 families through new homeownership, home repairs, and international support this year! This means that 744 adults and children are now living in safer, more stable, more affordable housing than they were a year prior.

This year highlighted the incredible importance of a stable, healthy home; a place to feel safe and secure, to work and play, and to provide a foundation from which to thrive.

The challenge is that too many of our neighbors don't have an affordable, stable home. In fact, 1 in 6 households pay more than 50% of their monthly income on housing. That doesn't leave much else for food, clothing, transportation and health care. People are struggling and they need our support.

“ This year highlighted the incredible importance of a stable, healthy home”

Habitat for Humanity is resilient, innovative, courageous and determined – more than ever before – to continue building homes, communities and hope. We know that a house represents so much more than just shelter. Our homes provide the strength, stability and support that builds resiliency and hope.

Thank you for joining us in this important work, during such an important year. You make a difference.

In partnership,

Heather Lafferty, CEO

In 2020, Habitat
Metro Denver created
new homeownership opportunities for 42 families.

*A*zariah's story

The past 18 months have been a rollercoaster for Azariah, filled with countless hours of hard work and determination to achieve her dream of homeownership. "I'll never forget the day my life changed... it was on Tuesday, April 30, 2019 when I applied to become a Habitat homeowner," Azariah shares. So it was serendipitous that exactly one year later, Azariah and her sons moved into their new Habitat home.

"My sons and I have had to move 4 times within the last 4 years," Azariah reflects. "When I applied to become a Habitat homeowner, my sons and I were sharing a single-room basement rental where my sons' health and safety was being impacted and forced us to move once again. Most recently, we were sharing a one-bedroom apartment with my mother until our home was completed."

"It was such a difficult situation to not only be in a one-bedroom apartment while we waited to move, but especially during this pandemic. It has been stressful," shares Azariah. "I am grateful to have had so much to look forward to in such dark times."

"Now we can have stability in unstable times. We are humbled and grateful. We can't wait to decorate our home and return to our adventures in the kitchen by cooking a new and different meal each week. We are enormously grateful to Habitat's staff and supporters for giving us such a wonderful opportunity. Because of this house, my sons and I have stability!"

“ I am grateful to have had so much to look forward to in such dark times.”

In 2020, Habitat
Metro Denver provided home modifications and home repairs for 82 families.

Regina's story

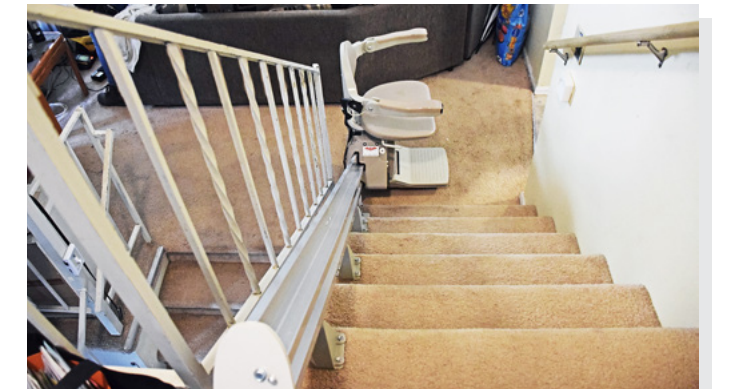

Regina is a vibrant 73 years old and has lived in her home in Aurora for 35 years. Regina cares deeply about her health, mobility and being able to stay in her home. "I am independent but it's the little things that have become more difficult. One of the hardest daily tasks for me to accomplish used to be taking a shower; I was scared to fall or not be able to get out."

After reaching out to the Colorado Visiting Nurse Association (CVNA) for help, Regina applied for the CAPABLE program, which is a collaborative effort between CVNA and Habitat to provide seniors with medical consultations and home modifications. The program includes ten home visits with an occupational therapist, a registered nurse, and Habitat Metro Denver staff, all of whom evaluate the needs of the individual and identify how to improve their life.

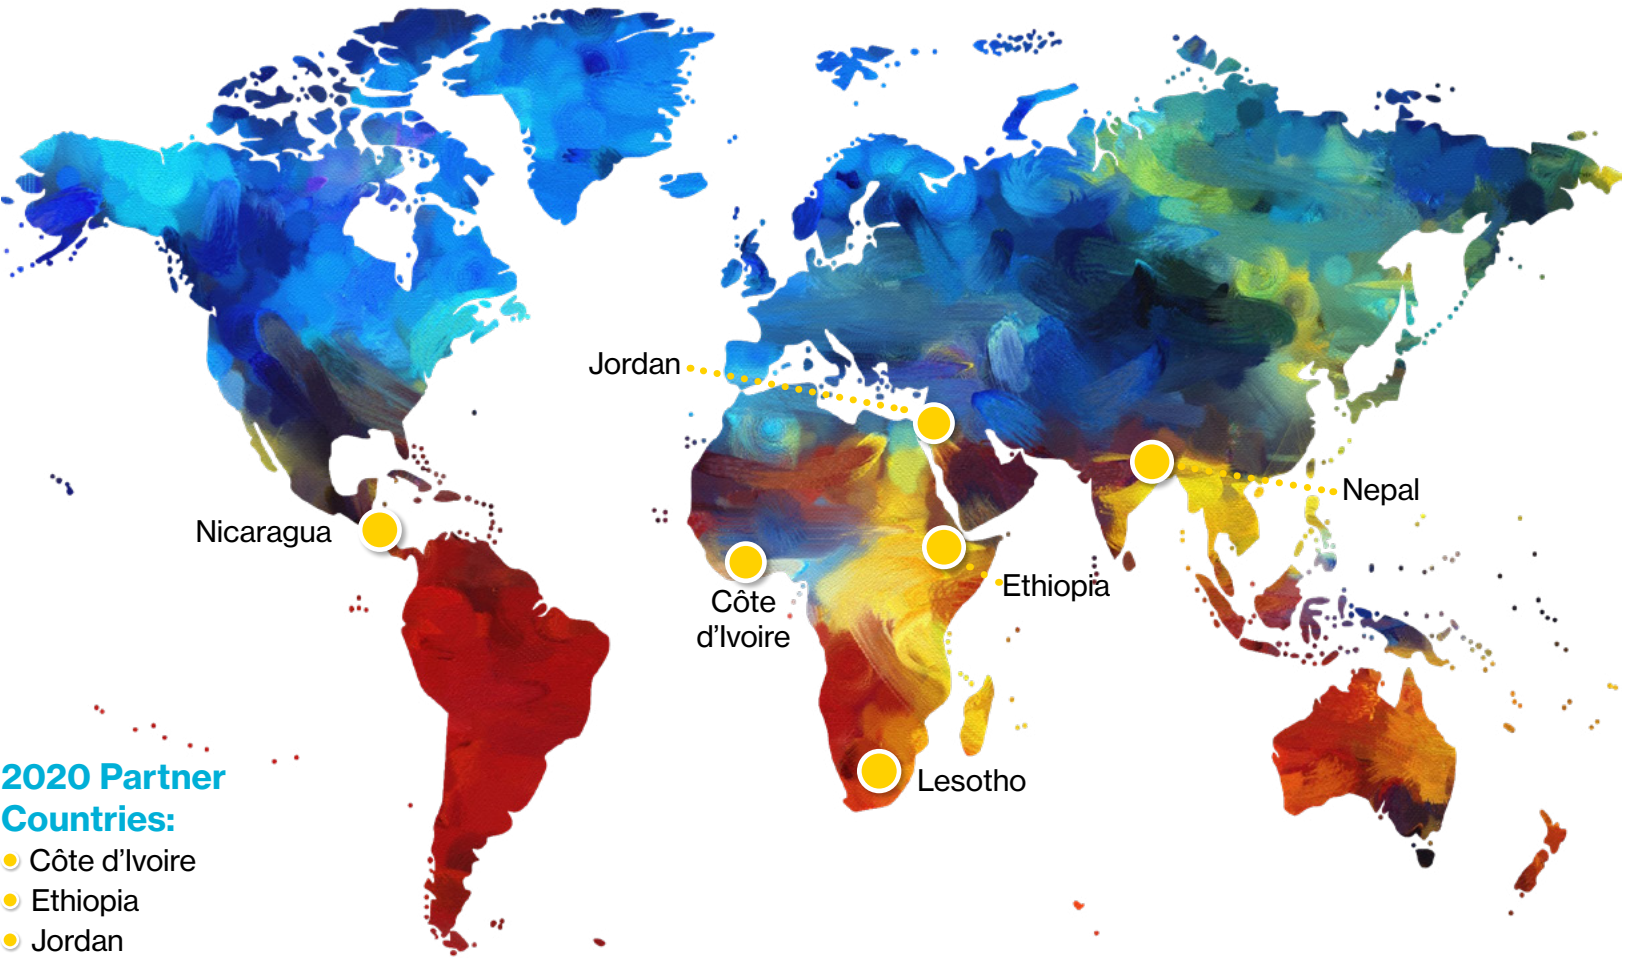

The home repairs and improvements completed on Regina's home include: a stair-lift to safely get her to her bedroom, interior and exterior grab bars, retiled floor, a shower chair with non-slip padding, and a front porch ramp.

"I am so happy, I feel safe and can now get out of the house more! I would recommend the CAPABLE program to any senior that wants to stay in their home," Regina shares.

“ I am so happy,
I feel safe and can now get out of the house more!

In 2020, Habitat Metro Denver funded the construction of 62 homes in global partner countries.

2020 Partner Countries:

- Côte d'Ivoire
- Ethiopia
- Jordan
- Lesotho
- Nepal
- Nicaragua

Since 1985, Habitat Metro Denver has invested in Habitat's global work in 40 countries around the world. In 2020, we reached the milestone of sponsoring 1,048 homes internationally.

One of the best ways to learn about another country's housing needs is to travel there on a Global Village trip. A team from Habitat Metro Denver recently had this opportunity when they travelled to Jordan to help build a home for a local family. For one week in September 2019, the team from Habitat Metro Denver immersed themselves in Jordanian culture while building a two-bedroom home for Ahmad, Maysaa and their five children, ages 7 to 19 years. And while two bedrooms may not seem like a lot for seven people, the team says the spacious new home was a big upgrade from their current apartment, and offered much more stability for the couple raising four children with special needs.

The Habitat Metro Denver team spent the week mixing mortar, moving bricks and building walls, while also taking time for breaks to enjoy tea and authentic food with locals. They enjoyed watching men fling fresh pita from brick ovens, playing patty cake and rock-paper-scissors with local children, and uncovering 2,000-year-old mosaic tile church floors from the dirt.

One emotional day, the crew visited the apartment that Ahmad and Maysaa share with their children, all but the youngest of whom are confined to beds. Seeing the family's need truly struck the team.

"Every time I come back from a Habitat Global Village trip, I'm grateful for my life – for what I've been exposed to," says Cherri Peterson, Habitat Metro Denver trip member.

than just a house...

Habitat for Humanity of Metro Denver is best known for building affordable homes. But, Habitat's impact is so much more than just houses. When a family lives in a decent and affordable home, it has a ripple effect that impacts many other facets of life, including educational success, financial stability, health and quality of life.*
